Owl Babies

Communication and Language

- Create a forest themed small world using logs, plants and pieces of bark. Add some story sacks or these Owl Babies Book Puppets. Encourage children to retell the events and repeat key phrases as they play.
- Introduce Bill the baby owl and explain that each day he will drop off a picture of different animals and their young for children to find out more about. This can be used as an opportunity to introduce new vocabulary.
- Initiate a discussion on where the children think the owl mother went and what she was doing. Model how to communicate thoughts as well from and we know.
- Play a hiding game with the children. Ask one child to close their eyes while another child hides an owl toy. When the child opens their eyes, they need to search for the owl. The other children can give sound clues by saying hot/cold. Usually if they are close to the toy, it is quiet, if further away.

Personal, Social and Emotional Development

- Begin a discussion about staying safe and talking to trusted adults. Pose or role play different scenarios, such as what children should do if they lose a parent or carer when they are out. Share ideas of the safest options to take them, explaining the reasons why.
- Consider the feelings of the young owls in the story and invite children to share a choice of what makes them feel scared or worried and ask him in a worry box. Then, encourage children to share and reduce their worries by talking about them. Remind the group to show sensitivity to other's feelings.
- Support children to understand that the baby owls are nocturnal and have an opposite sleep routine to us. Talk about why a good night's sleep is important and invite children to share strategies of what helps them to sleep. Create a large class poster or leaflet for children to take home and use the ideas to help them at bedtime.

Physical Development

- Set up some branches or long planks with safety mats and pretend they are real branches from the story. Invite children to be baby owls and explore moving across the branches in different ways (such as on tummy, side stepping or jumping).
- Attach feathers to pencils and provide children to complete Owl Babies Pencil Control Sheets.
- Draw a large tree with three branches of different sizes. Hand children some overlays to place at the branches. If the overlays fall on Sarah's large branch, children get one point. If they fall on Percy's smaller branch, they get two points and if they fall on Bill's tiny top branch, they receive three points.
- Create some owl shaped snacks using crumpets, spread and slices fruit such as blueberries for the eyes and half a strawberry for the beak. Encourage children to practise using cutlery effectively to spread, cut and eat their fun and healthy snacks.

Literacy

- Hide some individual letters or CVC words around the room and dim the lights. Prompt children to use their spacer owl eyes (torches) to find and read the letters/words.
- Provide large strips of brown paper for children to write words on to describe an owl. Arrange the strips into a large owl template on feathers to create a display.
- Create some branch cut-outs with pictures of CVC words on. Provide some owl images with letters lost. Encourage children to build the CVC words by adding the owls on the branches.
- Provide the Owl Babies Caption Writing Activity to prompt children to write phrases linked to the story.

Mathematics

- Invite children to place some leaves onto branches in a large tree and select the correct numbers to match. Extend learning by adding one more leaf to each branch or taking one away, explaining the change in number.
- Leave a trail of different sized owl footprints, feathers and branches for children to collect. Then, compare the sizes of each item and decide which owl they belong to.
- Explore the composition of three by placing three fixed animals around a small world area. For example, there are two owls in the tree and one on the ground. Ask a mother owl to look at the composition of four.

Understanding the World

- Look at the owl family in the story then invite children to talk about their own family by sharing photos from home. Compare similarities and differences between families.
- Organise a scavenger hunt outside to find natural items from in the story, such as leaves, feathers and twigs. Invite children to look closely at each item then draw them.
- Encourage children to stand outside and pretend to be a baby owl. Ask them what can they hear nearby and far away? What can they feel around them?
- Learn about owls in different habitats (e.g. the Arctic). Compare these places to the local environment.

Expressive Arts and Design

- Encourage children to create repeated patterns of the story using natural resources, such as feathers, leaves, pine cones, bark, logs, twigs.
- Make the room dark and provide children to create movements to pretend to be nocturnal forest animals while holding glow sticks or battery operated candles.
- Organise children into small groups and choose an Owl Babies Sequencing Card. Each group can act out the story scene or create a freeze frame for others to guess which card they have recreated.
- Provide white paint and a variety of tools for children to explore producing different artistic textures to create fluffy looking owls on black paper.
