

EXPERIMENT 1

DISSECTION OF RAT

INTRODUCTION

A rat dissection is conducted to explore the internal structure and function of basic mammalian anatomy. Such vertebrate mammal has many aspects of its structural organization that are alike with humans. In a way, studying the rat is like studying a human. For every structure observed in the rat, there is an equivalent structure in a human body - what is the structure and where is it located? How do these organs and organ systems make my body function? The relationships among organs and groups of organs are essential in the study of anatomy and physiology. It is important that the structural parts are not "just there" in random locations. Their specific layout within the body contributes to making certain functions possible. Therefore, in this activity, for every structure seen, you should determine the function; what organ system it belongs to as well as to how it relates to other components.

In this experiment, the Sprague Dawley rat is used. Such animal is an outbred, multipurpose breed of albino rat which commonly used in medical and nutritional research. Its main advantage is its calmness and ease of handling.

However, it is important to consider ethically on sacrificing the animals ways of humane killing for the animals involved in research.

OBJECTIVES

1. To inspect the rat external and internal anatomy.
2. To identify the structural parts (organs) and the components of organs involved for several systems

MATERIALS

Dissecting instruments, Hand lens, freshly euthanized rats.
