In 't Veld, 2012 De auteurs van Procesmanagement beschouwen een manager als een succesvolle beslisser als hij veel aandacht heeft voor de procesaspecten van verandering Succesvol management is namelijk voor een groot deel afhankelijk van de mate waarin de stakeholders betrokken worden bij de besluitvorming en hun eigen belangen beschermd zien Zonder hun steun is elke verandering gedoemd te mislukken Dit boek bevat een groot aantal inzichten over dit procesmanagement De auteurs gaan in op de voordelen daarvan maar ook de risico's en tekortkomingen lichten zij scherp toe En ze beschrijven strategieën om met die nadelen om te gaan In deze 4e herziene druk is bovendien een hoofdstuk toegevoegd met een aantal praktische handreikingen die het ontwerp en management van processen overzichtelijk en eenvoudig toepasbaar maken Over de auteurs Hans de Bruijn is hoogleraar Organisatie en management aan de faculteit Techniek Bestuur en Management van de Technische Universiteit Delft Ernst ten Heuvelhof is hoogleraar Bestuurskunde aan de faculteit Techniek Bestuur en Management van de Technische Universiteit Delft en aan de faculteit der Sociale Wetenschappen van de Erasmus Universiteit Rotterdam Roel in t Veld is hoogleraar Management van hybride organisaties aan de Open Universiteit Nederland hoogleraar Governance aan de Universiteit van Curaçao en hoogleraar Governance and Sustainability aan de Universiteit van Tilburg Bovendien is hij voorzitter van NLBW Nederland Boven Water Bron Flaptekst uitgever informatie

Governance in Modern Society Oscar van Heffen, Walter J.M. Kickert, Jacques J.A. Thomassen, 2013-03-09 This book is the immediate result of the co operation of a great number of scholars in the Netherlands Institute of Government NIG NIG is an interuniversity research school As such it has a double task In addition to offering a Ph D program to students in Public Administration it also is a research institute in which a great number of scholars from seven Dutch universities participate and work on a common research program The chapters in this book are all products of the research program that started in 1995 This program had the ambition to explore the frontiers of the discipline in two respects First by studying a number of recent developments in society and their consequences for the functioning of government These consequences can be summarised as the development of a system of multi level and multi actor governance Second by contributing to the knowledge of institutions both by studying what factors are most important in the formation and change of institutions and by studying the effects of institutions on the behaviour of actors in different political and administrative settings Most contributions to this volume either have their origin in conferences organized by the NIG or were published as an NIG working paper We are grateful to Marcia Clifford and Connie

Hoekstra who prepared the final version of the manuscript to Ian Priestnall who took care of the language editing and to an anonymous reviewer whose comments were gratefully used

Multi-Stakeholder Platforms for Integrated Water Management Dr Jeroen Warner, 2012-11-28 As they provide a negotiating space for a diversity of interests Multi Stakeholder Platforms MSPs are an increasingly popular mode of involving civil society in resource management decisions This book focuses on water management to take a positive if critical look at this phenomenon Illustrated by a wide geographical range of case studies from both developed and developing worlds it recognizes that MSPs will neither automatically break down divides nor bring actors to the table on an equal footing and argues that MSPs may in some cases do more harm than good The volume then examines how MSPs can make a difference and how they might successfully co opt the public private and civil society sectors The book highlights the particular difficulties of MSPs when dealing with integrated water management programmes explaining how MSPs are most successful at a less complex and more local level It finally questions whether MSPs are or can be sustainable and puts forward suggestions for improving their durability

Process Management Hans de Bruijn, Ernst ten Heuvelhof, Roel in 't Veld, 2010-08-13 End pro t and loss account As a result there will be a stage at which the parties have developed relations and prospects of gain while there are still a number of problems that are difficult to solve and that fail to evoke consensus Each party will then draw up a profit and loss account On the positive side of the balance are the relations developed and the gains collected on the negative side there are the losses and the unsolved problems For particular parties who have no interest in the problem the latter side is uninteresting for others who have an interest in a particular solution of this problem it represents a form of loss Profit and loss balance positive for a critical mass speed The speed of the process will increase if the profit and loss account shows a positive balance for a critical mass of parties They wish to collect their gains and therefore to make rational decisions At this point there will be an important psychological mechanism parties tend to anticipate on collecting their gains which increases their urge to speed up the process It is clear from the above however that the end of a process is difficult to predict

Analysing Strategic Environmental Assessment Pietro Caratti, Holger Dalkmann, Rodrigo Jiliberto H., 2004 Analytical Strategic Environmental Assessment ANSEA is an insightful new approach to environmental evaluation based on decision theory policy analysis and environmental considerations These concepts though not new in their own fields of application are combined and integrated in an innovative fashion This book presents recent research on the implementation of the ANSEA approach which aims to ensure environmental values are properly integrated into the decision making process ANSEA was developed to contribute to the systematic integration of environmental protection objectives in strategic decision making which in turn will contribute to the promotion of sustainable development The method can be applied to analyse how environmental and sustainability issues are addressed in decision making processes at both the national and local level for a variety of different policies Importantly the focus is on evaluating the decision making process itself rather than the quantitative output of an assessment With explicatory examples and practical case studies the distinguished interdisciplinary authors clearly illustrate how a decision centred approach to environmental assessment can be successfully achieved At a time when a new European directive requires the implementation of strategic environmental assessment SEA into all relevant decision making processes this timely book will be required reading for environmental policymakers in all EU member states It will also be a valuable source
