Numerical Development - From cognitive functions to neural underpinnings Korbinian Moeller,Elise Klein,Klaus F Willmes - von Hinckeldey,Karin Kucian,2015-02-24
Living at the beginning of the 21st century requires being numerate because numerical abilities are not only essential for life prospects of individuals but also for economic interests of post industrial knowledge societies Thus numerical development is at the core of both individual as well as societal interests There is the notion that we are already born with a very basic ability to deal with small numerosities Yet this often called number sense seems to be very restricted approximate and driven by perceptual constraints During our numerical development in formal e g school but also informal contexts e g family street we acquire culturally developed abstract symbol systems to represent exact numerosities in particular number words and Arabic digits refining our numerical capabilities In recent years numerical development has gained increasing research interest documented in a growing number of behavioural neuro scientific educational cross cultural and neuropsychological studies addressing this issue Additionally our understanding of how numerical competencies develop has also benefitted considerably from the advent of different neuro imaging techniques allowing for an evaluation of developmental changes in the human brain In sum we are now starting to put together a more and more coherent picture of how numerical competencies develop and how this development is associated with neural changes as well In the end this knowledge might also lead to a better understanding of the reasons for atypical numerical development which often has grievous consequences for those who suffer from developmental dyscalculia or mathematics learning disabilities Therefore this Research Topic deals with all aspects of numerical development findings from behavioural performance to underlying neural substrates from cross sectional to longitudinal evaluations from healthy to clinical populations To this end we included empirical contributions using different experimental methodologies but also theoretical contributions review articles or opinion papers

Conservation and restoration of the tropical landscape: Governance and multidisciplinary approaches Iskandar Z. Siregar,Lina Karlinasari,Maija Lampela,Suria Tarigan,Yudi Setiawan,Mohamed Kefi,2023-07-26 Axonopathy in Neurodegenerative Disease Samuel D. Crish,Robert W.

Burgess, Denise M. Inman, Christine M. Dengler-Crish, Jason R. Richardson, Brett Schofield, 2019-02-05 Axons are the major output processes of neurons responsible for transmitting information to other neurons and tissues throughout the body The 150 000 kilometers of axons make up half of the brain s volume and require a large amount of energy Normal axon function is the product of a massive number of intra and extra cellular mechanisms working in concert Perhaps not surprisingly the axon is a site of vulnerability during normal aging and in disease states although this has only been recently appreciated Axonopathy broadly defined as functional or structural defects in the axon or its terminal is common across a wide range of neurodegenerative conditions including amyotrophic lateral sclerosis Huntington s Parkinson s and Alzheimer s diseases glaucoma and as a result of neurotoxin exposure or drug treatment This Research Topic assembles a series of original research papers reviews and commentaries that will illustrate both the commonalities and important differences across neurodegenerative disorders Though this collection cannot address all aspects of this topic it is our hope that these manuscripts will educate other scientists and inspire new investigations into axon dysfunction and degeneration
