Referring in a Second Language Jonathon Ryan, Peter Crosthwaite, 2020-03-19 The introduction and tracking of reference to people or individuals known as referential movement is a central feature of coherence and accounts for about every third word of discourse Located at the intersection of pragmatics and grammar reference is now proving a rich and enduring source of insight into second language development The challenge for second language L2 learners involves navigating the selection and positioning of reference in the target language continually shifting and balancing the referential means used to maintain coherence while remaining acutely sensitive to the discourse and social context The present volume focuses on how L2 learners meet that challenge bringing together both eminent and up and coming researchers in the field of L2 acquisition The chapters address a range of problems in second language acquisition SLA e g form function mapping first language L1 influence developmental trajectories and do so in relation to various theoretical approaches to reference e g Accessibility Theory Givenness Hierarchy The global outlook of these studies relates to the L2 acquisition of English French Japanese Korean and Spanish and covers a diverse range of situational contexts including heritage language learning English as a medium of instruction and the development of sociolinguistic competence

Animal Labor and Colonial Warfare James L. Hevia, 2018-08-23 Until well into the twentieth century pack animals were the primary mode of transport for supplying armies in the field The British Indian Army was no exception In the late nineteenth century for example it forcibly pressed into service thousands of camels of the Indus River basin to move supplies into and out of contested areas a system that wreaked havoc on the delicately balanced multispecies environment of humans animals plants and microbes living in this region of Northwest India In Animal Labor and Colonial Warfare James Hevia examines the use of camels mules and donkeys in colonial campaigns of conquest and pacification starting with the Second Afghan War during which an astonishing 50 000 to 60 000 camels perished and ending in the early twentieth century Hevia explains how during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries a new set of human animal relations were created as European powers and the United States expanded their colonial possessions and attempted to put both local economies and ecologies in the service of resource extraction The results were devastating to animals and human communities alike disrupting centuries old ecological and economic relationships And those effects were lasting Hevia shows how a number of the key issues faced by the postcolonial nation state of Pakistan such as shortages of clean water for agriculture humans and animals and limited resources for dealing with infectious diseases can be directly traced to decisions made in the colonial past An innovative study of an underexplored historical moment Animal Labor and Colonial Warfare opens up the animal studies to non Western contexts and provides an empirically rich contribution to the emerging field of multispecies historical ecology
