

SHOW ME THE MONEY

If you would like salary data for a specific geographic location, give our physician recruiters a call (800.562.8662). We have access to physician salary surveys from industry leaders.

MYTHS OF GEOGRAPHY

Myth

Physician jobs in rural areas are less desirable.

Fact

Demand for physicians in rural towns is much higher, often driving compensation way up.

Myth

A low cost of living leads to a higher quality of life.

Fact

This is not necessarily the case. For some, a lakeside mansion in a sleepy little town just doesn't have the appeal of a small urban loft close to all the action.

WHAT JOB IS RIGHT FOR ME?

Location, location, location

There is a lot to consider in choosing a part of the country to start your career. You may have put hobbies and cultural activities on hold while you were in medical school and residency and are eager to take them up again. You may have a young family or know you want to start a family in this new phase of your life. All of these factors should carry some weight in your decision. See our questionnaire on page 16 for help organizing your decision making.

Rural vs. city

Generally speaking, the smaller the population of a town or region, the higher the salary will be. This phenomenon results from higher demand for jobs in bigger cities; more physicians want to work in New York, Chicago or Los Angeles than Fargo, North Dakota. The advantage of a small burg is that you are more likely to get paid in the 50th percentile and still enjoy an ultra low cost of living.

So depending on your priorities and the premium you place on living in a large city, you should weigh the pros and cons of a higher salary in a sleepy town versus a lower salary in a vibrant city. If your primary concern is paying off student loans quickly, the big city may not be the right place for you. If arts and culture and location matter to you more than compensation, put urban employers at the top of your list.

Another thing to consider is that in smaller locales, there is a greater need for generalists. They have a lower physician to population ratio and hospitals and practices need physicians who can see most cases and wear many hats. If you are most interested in being ultra-specialized, a large urban hospital or health system may be more your style. But the more specialized you are, the fewer job openings there will be in your target cities. You should be prepared to expand your geographic search to include lower priority locations.

Hidden gems

Several publications put out lists of desirable cities in the United States—the happiest, healthiest, most family friendly, the best bang for your buck. The cities that make those lists are often very surprising. Take the time to research cities that may not have made your original short list to see if you can discover some hidden gems, where salary, culture and lifestyle may converge to create the perfect location for your career and life. If you're an international medical graduate, you may not be familiar with parts of our country outside of your residency town. It's worth taking the time to research cities and interview around the country.
