Medicinal Power Of Cereals Pulses:

Cereals and Pulses Liangli L. Yu, Rong Tsao, Fereidoon Shahidi, 2012-01-30 Cereal and pulse crops are staple foods that provide essential nutrients to many populations of the world. Traditionally whole grains were consumed but most current foods are derived from refined fractions of cereal and pulse crops. Consumption of processed or refined products may reduce the health benefits of food. In wheat based processed foods for example the removed 40% of the grain mainly the bran and the germ of the wheat grain contains the majority of the health beneficial components. These components particularly non essential phytochemicals such as carotenoids, polyphenols, phytosterols, stanols and dietary fibers have been shown to reduce the risk of major chronic diseases of humans such as cancer, cardiovascular diseases and Parkinson's disease. Such bioactives are therefore good candidates for ingredients of nutraceuticals and functional foods. There are many factors that can affect the bioactive content of cereal and pulse based food ingredients including genetics, growing and storage conditions, post harvest treatments, food formulation and processing. All of these factors ultimately affect human health and wellness. Bioavailability is also important for these compounds for exerting their protective roles.

Cereals and Pulses Nutraceutical Properties and Health Benefits provides a summary of current research findings related to phytochemical composition and properties of cereal and pulse crops. The nutraceutical properties of each major cereal and pulse are discussed. Coverage of cereals and pulse crops includes barley, oats, rice, rye, corn, adlay, wheat, buckwheat, psyllium, sorghum, millet, common beans, field peas, faba beans, chickpea, lentil and soybeans. Chapters for each crop discuss methods to improve crop utilization, nutraceutical components and properties, bioactive compositions, antioxidant properties, beneficial health effects, disease prevention activities and areas for future research. Also included are two chapters that examine the beneficial health properties of dietary fibers and antioxidants. Edited and written by an international team of respected researchers, this book is a reference guide for scientists working in food ingredients, food product research and development, functional foods and nutraceuticals, crop breeding and genetics, human nutrition, post harvest treatment and processing of cereal grains and pulses. It will enable them to effect value added food innovation for health promotion and disease risk reduction.

Handbook of Cereals, Pulses, Roots, and Tubers Sneha Punia Bangar, Anil Siroha, Manoj Kumar, 2021-10-10 Cereals, pulses, roots and tubers are major food sources worldwide and make a substantial contribution to the intake of carbohydrates, protein and fiber as well as vitamin E and B. The Handbook of Cereals, Pulses, Roots and Tubers: Functionality, Health Benefits and Applications provides information about commercial cereals, pulses and their nutritional profile as well as health benefits and their food and non food applications. Split into four sections, this handbook covers all the recent research about the related crops and outlines matters needing further research in the field of agriculture sciences. Both qualitative and quantitative analysis of nutrients and bioactives and their beneficial effects on human health are highlighted in this book. The conclusions drawn and future perspectives proposed in each chapter will also help researchers to take more focused approaches.

How Nature Cures Emmet Densmore, 1892 If I Can, Anybody Can Reverse Diabetes Sachin Baraddi, 2024-10-30 India is becoming the diabetes capital of the world. It's really necessary to understand that type 2 diabetes is actually curable and reversible. By changing your diet and making some adjustments in your lifestyle along with a little knowledge, you will have the power to heal yourself. You are just one decision away from a radiant, disease-free, healthy life. Knowledge is power, but applied knowledge is more powerful. Don't just think, take action, research, experiment, and rediscover your great health. All the best for your healing journey. The Dublin Journal of Medical Science, 1893 50 Years of Green Revolution M. S. Swaminathan, 2017-03-14 The green revolution in India about 50 years ago transformed India's image from a begging bowl to a bread basket. This transformation during the 1960s took just about 4 years. The yield increases achieved in wheat and then in rice, which occurred in just about half a decade, is far in excess of the yield increases during the preceding 4000 years. This remarkable feat was achieved with the leadership of the author using the dwarf wheat types which had been produced by Norman Borlaug in Mexico. The research and development of the green revolution of wheat and rice at the Indian Agricultural Research Institute, New Delhi, was led by the author along with his team of students and co-workers. He has published over 100 papers on the green revolution and the ever-green revolution, which is a refinement of the former. This book is a compilation of just about 40 of his numerous research papers, monographs, and books published by him on this subject. The papers in this book bring out the scientific basis of the modification of the plant type so as to be responsive to the exogenous addition of chemical fertilizers and irrigation. The ideal plant type enables capture of adequate sunlight and, using the chemical fertilizers, added to the soil produce substantial photosynthetic starch And because the plants have short and thick culm they are able to withstand enormous amounts of grains in their ears This indeed was the basis of breaking the yield barriers associated with native varieties The book also brings out that green revolution had established the food security at the national level but not at the individual household levels of millions of resource poor rural small and marginal farming fishing and landless families Further green revolution was commodity centric and the manner of its practice led to environmental degradation and social inequities This author realized as early as 1972 that system of agriculture in India should be designed to fight both the famines of food and rural livelihoods In pursuit of it this author further designed an evergreen revolution with systems approach What this means is providing concurrent attention to ecological foundations of agriculture and the livelihoods of the rural people The book also brings out that green revolution was a team effort involving scientists policy makers administrators farmers and students This book is an outstanding example of green revolution providing a breathing space by putting the cereal grain production rate ahead of the population growth rate and then when food security has been adequately established the system is changed to achieve productivity in perpetuity without causing environmental and social harm
