

gpt: Follow-up and Review Forming Study 1

I. Introduction

Research is concerned to study better methods that give more reliable results in their methods studies that have a high internal validity than those already known.

Point of View (POV) is also known from the principle of independence (p. 2). It describes a point of view that is not influenced by the researcher's position.

It also suggests the need for a reliable method that is aware of the researcher's independence of elements.

Conducting studies that investigate various aspects of independence of various elements (methodology) is also known as conducting research on research methods.

II. Study 1

Study 1 is the second gpt: Follow-up and Review Forming Study 1. It is a study that is conducted in the field of research. The study is conducted by researchers in their field of research and is conducted in a laboratory setting.

1. What is the purpose of the study?

2. What is the design?

3. What are the results?

4. Do you think this was good research? Which methodological principles were used? Which methodological principles were violated? (p. 2)

4. What are the results?

5. Have the results provided a more detailed view of the research? (p. 2) Have the results been well documented in the literature? (p. 2)

III. Study 2

1. What is the purpose of the study?

2. What is the design?

3. What are the results? (p. 2) Have the results provided a more detailed view of the research? (p. 2)
