Science For Seniors Hands On Learning Activities:

Science for Seniors Gloria Hoffner, 2012 Science for Seniors is based on one belief We are never too old to learn Science for Seniors shows activity leaders how to provide stimulating science activities that provide both entertainment and enlightenment as part of a life long learning process Written in an informative and easy to follow style Science for Seniors gives basic science information and hands on programs that activity directors or therapists can use with seniors of all intellectual and physical abilities Some of the topics covered in the book are volcanoes oceans global warming rain forests and outer space With each subject Science for Seniors provides step by step directions to a unique experiment or demonstration using ordinary household items Resource material and opportunities for further study let participants continue the learning process after the basic program is completed

Primary Science Education in East Asia Yew-Jin Lee, Jason Tan, 2018-09-26 This edited volume is a state of the art comparison of primary science education across six East Asian regions namely the People s Republic of China Republic of Korea Republic of China Hong Kong SAR Japan and Singapore While news of educational policies classroom teaching assessment and other educational innovations here often surface in the international media this book brings together for the first time relevant information regarding educational systems and strategies in primary science in East Asia Above all it is a readable yet comprehensive survey readers would have an accurate sense of what has been accomplished what has not worked so well and what remains to be done Invited experts in comparative education research and or science education also provide commentary by discussing common themes across the six regions These types of critical synoptic reviews add much value by enabling readers to understand broad commonalities and help synthesize what must surely be a bewildering amount of very interesting albeit confusing body of facts issues and policies Education in East Asia holds many lessons both positive and negative to offer to the rest of the world to which this volume is a timely contribution to the literature

Further Results from PISA 2006 Mareike Kobarg, Manfred Prenzel, Tina Seidel, 2011 The OECD Programme for International Student Assessment PISA assesses the competencies of 15 year old students around the world In 2006 the PISA report focused on the science competencies 15 year old students developed The report does not reflect a systematic consideration of science learning environments in schools and their relationship to cognitive and motivational outcomes in terms of scientific literacy However in all investigated countries schools are where young people become familiar with science over an extended period of time Hence this book aims to provide detailed information on science teaching and learning in schools in the OECD countries Data from the PISA 2006 school principals and students questionnaires is used for the description of science teaching and learning First the context of science teaching in schools is described to provide a background for the analyses that follow Then the book draws a detailed picture of different components of science teaching relevant for student learning In addition international patterns of science teaching and learning are investigated The investigation focuses on the teaching of scientific enquiry This focus is chosen because the process of scientific enquiry models the way in which researchers think and it provides students with ample opportunities to develop science literacy Further investigations include the effects of different patterns of science teaching on student literacy The book concludes with implications for policy and practice
