

SCR COMPRESSOR

Belt Driven Series M Series

High Efficiency Airstand

The SCR asymmetric rotor profile allows for a broader bearing base between rotors compared to the conventional narrow lip style seal in most other air seals and increases efficiency by between 2- 10%.

The use of large rotor diameters allow for high efficiency at low rotational speeds and provide tangible benefits of extended longevity and low noise.

Over-sized dust back-to-back taper roller bearings effectively retain the rotor position during all load, unload and starting conditions.

Triple lip shaft sealing, combined with an oil recovery system is employed to achieve a leak free design that is immune to dust ingress and oil or air loss.

German engineered transmission belts

Get Band industrial belts, sourced from Germany are reinforced with Kevlar for reduced maintenance and delivers top efficiencies up to 90%.

Designed for safety

SCR machines have mandatory guards, earth grounding straps and several other safety features which comply with CE, UL and other safety standards.
