Picturing Place Picturing Place:

Picturing Place Joan Schwartz, James Ryan, 2003-04-19 The advent of photography opened new worlds to 19th century viewers who became able to visualize themselves their immediate surroundings their communities and the world beyond The geographical imagination the ability to know the world and situate oneself in space and time fostered the expectations and applications of photographic technologies and photographic technologies expresses the form and reach of the geographical imagination This dialectic is the basis of this collection of intriguing essays which explore the diverse ways in which the relationship manifested

Picturing Place Joan Schwartz, James Ryan, 2021-10-30 The advent of photography opened up new worlds to 19th century viewers who were able to visualize themselves and the world beyond in unprecedented detail But the emphasis on the photography's objectivity masked the subjectivity inherent in deciding what to record from what angle and when This text examines this inherent subjectivity Drawing on photographs that come from personal albums corporate archives commercial photographers government reports and which were produced as art as record as data the work shows how the photography shaped and was shaped by geographical concerns

Meaningful Places Rachel McLean Sailor, 2014-03-01 The early history of photography in America coincided with the Euro American settlement of the West This thoughtful book argues that the rich history of western photography cannot be understood by focusing solely on the handful of well known photographers whose work has come to define the era Art historian Rachel Sailor points out that most photographers in the West were engaged in producing images for their local communities These pictures didn't just entertain the settlers but gave them a way to understand their new home Photographs could help the settlers adjust to their new circumstances by recording the development of a place revealing domestication alteration and improvement The book explores the cultural complexity of regional landscape photography western places and local sociopolitical concerns Photographic imagery like western paintings from the same era enabled Euro Americans to see the new landscape through their own cultural lenses shaping the idea of the frontier for the people who lived there

Performing Tourist Places Jørgen Ole Bærenholdt, Michael Haldrup, John Urry, 2017-07-05 This book looks at the making and the consuming of places in the contemporary world Illustrated through a case on Denmark it considers the general arguments about the intersections of places performances and peoples It is shown that those who are visitors to a place in part produce that place through their performances Places are intertwined with people through various systems that generate and reproduce performances in and of that place These systems comprise networks of hosts guests buildings objects and machines that contingently realize particular performances of specific places The studies reported here further develop what we might describe as the new mobility paradigm that is developing within the social sciences

The Place of Many Moods Dipti Khera, 2020-09-29 India retains one of the richest painting traditions in the history of global visual culture one that both parallels aspects of European traditions and also diverges from it While European artists venerated the landscape and landscape paintings it is rare in the Indian tradition to find depictions of landscapes for their sheer beauty and mood without religious or courtly significance. There is one glorious exception: Painters from the city of Udaipur in Northwestern India specialized in depicting places including the courtly worlds and cities of rajas, sacred landscapes of many gods and bazaars bustling with merchants, pilgrims and craftsmen. Their court paintings and painted invitation scrolls displayed rich geographic information, notions of territory and the bhava or feel, emotion and mood of a place. This is the first book to use artistic representations of place to trace the major aesthetic, intellectual and political shifts in South Asia over the long eighteenth century. While James Tod, the first British colonial agent based in Udaipur, established the region's reputation as a principality in a state of political and cultural deterioration, author Dipti Khera uses these paintings to suggest a counter narrative of a prosperous region with beautiful and bountiful cities and plentiful rains and lakes. She explores the perspectives of courtly communities, merchants, pilgrims, monks, laypeople and officers and the British East India Company's officers, explorers and artists. Throughout she draws new conclusions about the region's intellectual and artistic practices and its shifts in political authority, mobility and urbanity.

Reclaiming Heritage Ferdinand de Jong, Michael Rowlands, 2016-06-03. Struggles over the meaning of the past are common in postcolonial states. State cultural heritage programs build monuments to reinforce nation building efforts, often supported by international organizations and tourist dollars. These efforts often ignore the other, often more troubling memories preserved by local communities: markers of colonial oppression, cultural genocide and ethnic identity. Yet as the contributors to this volume note, questions of memory, heritage, identity and conservation are interwoven at the local, ethnic, national and global level and cannot be easily disentangled. In a fascinating series of cases from West Africa, anthropologists, archaeologists and art historians show how memory and heritage play out in a variety of postcolonial contexts. Settings range from televised ritual performances in Mali to monument conservation in Djenné and slavery memorials in Ghana.

Companion Encyclopedia of Geography Ian Douglas, Richard Huggett, Chris Perkins, 2018-12-12. This revised edition takes the theme of place as the unifying principle for a full account of the discipline at the beginning of the twenty-first century. The work comprises 64 substantial essays addressing human and physical geography and exploring their interrelations. The encyclopedia does full justice to the enormous growth of social and cultural geography in recent years. Leading international academics from ten countries and four continents have contributed, ensuring that differing traditions in geography around the world are represented. In addition to references, the essays also have recommendations for further reading. As with the original work, the new Companion Encyclopedia of Geography provides a state-of-the-art survey of the discipline and is an indispensable addition to the reference shelves of libraries supporting research and teaching in geography. Camera

Craft, 1923. Book Notes Illustrated, 1924. Picturing the Maghreb Mary B. Vogl, 2003. Picturing the Maghreb critiques photographic and verbal representations with a focus on four of the most prominent French language writers of recent years: Michel Tournier, J. M. G. Le Clézio, Tahar Ben Jelloun and Leïla Sebbar. Their activist writing reframes a picture of Maghreb produced by two centuries of Orientalist misrepresentation The book explores photography as a metaphor for other sorts of representation and examines the cultural impact of actual photographs The Love Pirate Charles Norris Williamson, Alice Muriel Williamson, 1913 Imagining Paradise Sheila J.
