

Review the Subject

Read the following questions from a previous Science EXAM. Then review the four sample responses that follow and assign a score to each. After assigning a score justify the score you gave to each response. Consider explaining what the response included and what it was missing. If the response covered all parts of the question explain if they missed points across or throughout the text.

Use the following information and graph to answer question 24.

A medical researcher is investigating immune responses in patients exposed to an antigen (protein). The graph below shows the concentration of an antibody (protein) in the bloodstream produced during the process of acquired immunity. One curve shows the primary immune response (after the first exposure to the antigen), and the other curve shows the secondary immune response (after the second exposure to the antigen).

A vaccine is given to the first exposure to an antigen and triggers the body's primary immune response. Some vaccines contain weakened or inactivated pathogens. Other vaccines contain highly purified and recombinant forms.

Concentration of Antibody in Primary and Secondary Acquired Immune Responses

24. Describe the ability of retaining a vaccine, such as the graph above, in protecting the body against disease, and include data from the graph to support your answer. Be sure to be specific in the words provided in your answer. Response: (6 points)
