

1. Cognition	all the mental activities associated with thinking, knowing, remembering, and communicating	11. Belief bias	the tendency for one's preexisting beliefs to distort logical reasoning, sometimes by making invalid conclusions seem valid, or valid conclusions seem invalid
2. Concept	a mental grouping of similar objects, events, ideas, or people	12. Language	our spoken, written, or signed words and the ways we combine them to communicate meaning
3. Prototype	a mental image or best example of a category	13. Phoneme	in a language, the smallest distinctive sound unit
4. Algorithm	a methodical, logical rule or procedure that guarantees solving a particular problem	14. Morpheme	in a language, the smallest unit that carries meaning; may be a word or a part of a word (such as a prefix)
5. Heuristic	a simple thinking strategy that often allows us to make judgments and solve problems efficiently; usually speedier but also more error-prone than algorithms. (Myers Psychology 8e p. 398)	15. Grammar	in a language, a system of rules that enables us to communicate with and understand others
6. Insight	a sudden and often novel realization of the solution to a problem	16. Semantics	The study of meaning in language.
7. Confirmation bias	a tendency to search for information that confirms one's preconceptions	17. Syntax	studies of the rules for forming admissible sentences
8. Fixation	the inability to see a problem from a new perspective; an impediment to problem solving	18. Babbling stage	beginning at about 4 months, the stage of speech development in which the infant spontaneously utters various sounds at first unrelated to the household language
9. Mental set	A tendency to approach a problem in a particular way, especially a way that has been successful in the past but may or may not be helpful in solving a new problem	19. One-word stage	the stage in speech development, from about 1 to 2, during which a child speaks mostly in single words.
10. Belief perseverance	clinging to one's initial conceptions after the basis on which they were formed has been discredited.	20. Two-word stage	Beginning about age 2, the stage in speech development during which a child speaks mostly two-word statements.
11. Intuition	knowing or sensing something without the use of reason; an insight	21. Telegraphic speech	early speech stage in which a child speaks like a telegram--'go car'--using mostly nouns and verbs and omitting 'auxiliary' words
12. Functional fixedness	the tendency to think of things only in terms of their usual functions; an impediment to problem solving	22. Aphasia	impairment of language, usually caused by left hemisphere damage either to Broca's area (impairing speaking) or to Wernicke's area (impairing understanding)
13. Representativeness heuristic	judging the likelihood of things in terms of how well they seem to represent, or match, particular prototypes; may lead one to ignore other relevant information	23. Broca's area	controls language expression--an area of the frontal, usually in the left hemisphere, that directs the muscle movements involved in speech
14. Availability heuristic	estimating the likelihood of events based on their availability in memory; if instances come readily to mind, we presume such events are common	24. Wernicke's area	controls language reception--a brain area involved in language comprehension and expression; usually in the left temporal lobe
15. Overconfidence	the tendency to be more confident than correct--to overestimate the accuracy of one's beliefs and judgments	25. Linguistic relativity	Whorf's hypothesis that language determines the way we think.
16. Framing	the way an issue is posed; how an issue is framed can significantly affect decisions and judgments.	26. Artificial Intelligence	the science of designing and programming computer systems to do intelligent things and to simulate human thought processes such as reasoning and understanding language
		27. Computer Neural Networks	Computer circuits that mimic the brain's interconnected neural cells, performing tasks such as learning to recognize visual patterns and smells

Young Children Sue Robson, 2012-01-19 Developing Thinking and Understanding in Young Children presents a comprehensive and accessible overview of contemporary theory and research about young children's developing thinking and understanding. Throughout this second edition, the ideas and theories presented are enlivened by transcripts of children's activities and conversations taken from practice and contemporary research, helping readers to make links between theory, research, and practice. Each chapter also includes ideas for further reading and suggested activities. Aimed at all those interested in how young children develop through their thoughts and actions, Sue Robson explores theories of cognitive development, the social, emotional, and cultural contexts of children's thinking, children's conceptual development, visual thinking, approaches to supporting the development of young children's thinking and understanding, latest developments in brain science, and young children's central roles of play and language in young children's developing thinking. Including a new chapter on young children's musical thinking, expanded sections on self-regulation, metacognition, and creative thinking, and the use of video to observe and describe young children's thinking, this book will be an essential read for all students undertaking Early Childhood Primary PGCE and EYPS courses. Those studying for a Foundation degree in Early Years and Childcare will also find this book to be of interest. Mod/Pra Exam Psy Mod Appr Dennis Coon, 2005-06 This book can be packaged for free with every text.
