

Guidelines to Prepare for MRCOG Part 1 Exams

Member of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, abbreviated as MRCOG, is one of the most sought after qualification for an aspiring gynecologist. In order to add this top-class qualification beside one's name, an aspirant has to clear three parts of the MRCOG examination. The first part of MRCOG is a Computer Based test. Two CBT examinations are included in part 1. In each CBT, an aspirant has to answer 100 questions in 2.5 hours. There is no minimum score requirement, however an aspirant has to mark maximum number of correct answers to get qualified for the MRCOG part 2 exam. These two papers of MRCOG part 1 examination are usually held in a single day. There will be a break of one hour between both the papers. For appearing in MRCOG exam Part 1, an aspirant must fill application form first and get their eligibility checked, declare expression of interest, and then book the exam.

Given below is a comprehensive guide for preparing MRCOG part 1 exam:

- Since MRCOG part 1 exam consists of single best answer type questions, an aspirant has to practice answering in a concise manner. By learning from a book where the content is given in a concise way- for example in bullet points, charts, diagrams etc., the aspirant can save both time and efforts needed in noting important points or setting aside the clutter to derive answers in a compact form.
- An aspirant is expected to know the standard way of learning which involves going through the syllabus in detail before starting with the learning chapters or concepts. MRCOG, like UG and PG, requires an aspirant to begin with the syllabus. Owing to the vast nature of MRCOG syllabus, an aspirant must start preparing at least one year prior for cracking MRCOG Part 1 in the first attempt. Registration for part 1 happens twice a year- first in March and then in September. An aspirant planning to crack the MRCOG in either March or September, should plan the study lessons and revision strategy beforehand.
- Instead of putting long hours in MRCOG preparation, an aspirant can break the preparation time in smaller batches, thereby allocating equal number of hours to each subject. For example, if an aspirant is following the Richa Saxena MRCOG book, a chapter that is already written in a concise format can be covered in 4 days. Images, infographics, videos that are available on top grade MRCOG online prep courses must be revised on a rotational basis.
- Creating a logically organized schedule will prevent a topic or concept from getting missed. Like every other exam where there are some topics that are always more important than the others, the MRCOG part 1 exam also emphasizes a few sets of concepts. However, it doesn't
