Rethinking Nature Aurélie Choné, Isabelle Hajek, Philippe Hamman, 2017-05-18 Contemporary ideas of nature were largely shaped by schools of thought from Western cultural history and philosophy until the present day concerns with environmental change and biodiversity conservation There are many different ways of conceptualising nature in epistemological terms reflecting the tensions between the polarities of humans as masters or protectors of nature and as part of or outside of nature The book shows how nature is today the focus of numerous debates calling for an approach which goes beyond the merely technical or scientific It adopts a threefold critical historical and cross disciplinary approach in order to summarise the current state of knowledge It includes contributions informed by the humanities especially history literature and philosophy and social sciences concerned with the production and circulation of knowledge about nature across disciplines and across national and cultural spaces The volume also demonstrates the ongoing reconfiguration of subject disciplines as seen in the recent emergence of new interdisciplinary approaches and the popularity of the prefix eco e g ecocriticism ecospirituality ecosophy and ecofeminism as well as subdivisions of ecology including urban ecology industrial ecology and ecosystem services Each chapter provides a concise overview of its topic which will serve as a helpful introduction to students and a source of easy reference This text is also valuable reading for researchers interested in philosophy sociology anthropology geography ecology politics and all their respective environmentalist strands

Posthumanism in the Age of Humanism Edgar Landgraf, Gabriel Trop, Leif Weatherby, 2018-10-04 The literary and scientific renaissance that struck Germany around 1800 is usually taken to be the cradle of contemporary humanism Posthumanism in the Age of Humanism shows how figures like Immanuel Kant and Johann Wolfgang Goethe as well as scientists specializing in the emerging modern life and cognitive sciences not only established but also transgressed the boundaries of the human This period so broadly painted as humanist by proponents and detractors alike also grappled with ways of challenging some of humanism's most cherished assumptions the dualisms for example between freedom and nature science and art matter and spirit mind and body and thereby also between the human and the nonhuman Posthumanism is older than we think and the so called humanists of the late Enlightenment have much to offer our contemporary re thinking of the human Deviations in Contemporary Theatrical Anthropology Ester Fuoco,2024-10-14 This book refers to the artistic deviation from dominant goals in a social system or from means considered legitimate in that system This book explores a New Humanism in the performing arts unique in the sense of human's ability to co create and communicate beyond spatial and temporal boundaries wars and pandemics through artistic deviations carried out by machines and through the Extended Reality Through the lens of anthropology and aesthetics this study selects useful case studies to demonstrate this phenomenon of performative symphonies in which the experimentation of AI driven creativity and the new human robot interaction HRI lead to philosophical inquiries about the nature of creativity intelligence and the definition of art itself These shifts in paradigms invite us to reconsider established concepts and explore new perspectives on the relationship between technology art and the human experience This book will be of great interest to students and scholars in theatre and performance studies anthropology and digital humanities Posthuman, Trop Humain N.
